SUCCESS STORY

Stewart's experience with
Apprenticeships and Fareport Training

"Fareport make the journey so easy from an employer's point of view. My small business has launched three fantastic careers, and I couldn't recommend them highly enough."

Stewart, Director, Blackhaus Developments

About Blackhaus Developments

My business combines quantity surveying and project management, specialising in luxury residential properties across Surrey and London. As sole director, I manage operations, secure new projects, and train staff to support their development.

Why did you choose Fareport Training?

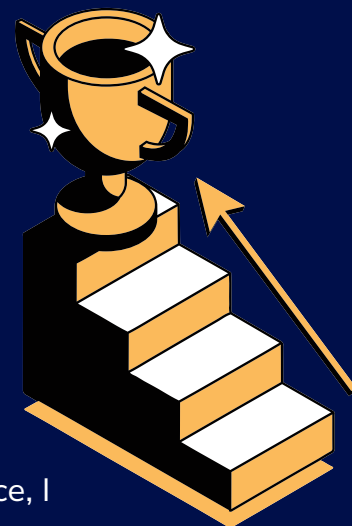

I had used Fareport circa 9 years ago for my first apprentice who had a successful 7 years with the business. I was very happy with the process and expertise from Fareport then and have been equally happy this time with two new apprentices

The impact

The apprentices have provided valuable support, freeing me to focus on growing the business while they build their skills. With Fareport's guidance, I know they are in safe hands, and seeing both achieve distinctions has been a proud highlight.

The Outcome

With Fareport's support, apprenticeships have not only strengthened my business but also helped launch the careers of young people, proving their value to individuals, employers, and the wider economy.

Why Fareport? Because your apprentices - and your business - deserve the best support.
